

A black and white photograph of a man and a woman. The woman, on the left, is smiling broadly and leaning her head against the man's cheek. The man, on the right, is looking directly at the camera with a slight, knowing smile. They are both dressed in formal attire; the woman in a light-colored blazer and the man in a dark suit jacket over a light shirt. The background is dark and out of focus, with another person's face partially visible on the right side. Overlaid on the center of the image is the French text "T'étais moins con tu buvais" in a white, sans-serif font.
